Dear Editor,

Did you know God is pro-choice? He will not stand in the way of poor judgment rendered by His creation. After reading “United Methodists reject gay marriage” (Sentinel- Wednesday, Feb 27) and how their delegates debated this biblically established subject, it revealed this to be true.

I mean, how can anyone not read Romans 1:21-28 and not understand the mind of God on this matter? And debating this subject when Scripture plainly states that He does not change (Mal 3:6) is the choice these, and all people for that matter, are given because of free agency.

But remember, Adam and Eve were also given free agency and we know where that went. The pre-denominational bride of Christ is not a democracy so no matter which way a vote is cast by mere mortals, God will have the final say.

The same goes with the murder of innocents. It's sad that governors aren't prosecuted in the same manner as Kermit Gosnell was. With the stroke of a pen they do more damage than what he did and yet are not deemed guilty of even worse crimes against humanity. They hide behind their ill interpretations of the Constitution as their gullible constituencies gobble up such misrepresentations out of bias toward an agenda. But to not give a newborn its Constitutional rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness is to deny an innocent human being his or her choice in the matter. I thought these progressive elites were all about 'choice'. Maybe it's just for those they deem worthy and not to those who can't defend themselves.

Yes, God truly is pro-choice. But in the end, He will honor our choices according to His will and not by majority vote that contends otherwise.
